Improving Learning through Powerful Practice

Facilitated by Dr. Elizabeth City, Harvard University

Dates: Nov 16, 2016 and/or May 9, 2017, 9 – 3:30 pm

Location: Killington Mountain Lodge, Killington, Vermont (Nov)

Stoweflake Mountain Resort, Stowe, Vermont (May)

Description: What does it look like for schools to have powerful learning throughout the building for both children and adults? These two workshops are designed to help school leaders and their leadership teams practice skills, tools and habit that support such learning. The fall workshop will focus on adult learning grounded in collaborative observation, analysis and practice. The spring workshop will focus on developing a clear plan for professional learning for the upcoming school year, building from current work and needs. Both workshops will include the power of imagination and shared vision when it comes to powerful learning.

The two workshops will build off each other and are timed to coincide with the rhythm of the school year. However, the summits are also independent and participants do not need to register for both. AND, they will NOT be redundant if you happened to spend time with Liz City at the VPA Leadership Academy!
